Cambridge's

HISTORY & HERITAGE

Nestled in the heart of southwestern Ontario, Cambridge is a city steeped in history and rich in heritage. With its roots tracing back to the 19th century, Cambridge emerged from the unification of Galt, Preston, Hespeler, and Blair—each contributing its unique charm to this vibrant tapestry.

Winding rivers, historic stone buildings, and timeless bridges define its landscape, echoing the stories of industrious settlers who shaped its legacy. The Grand River, a designated Canadian Heritage River, meanders gracefully through the city, tying past and present in its flow.

Cambridge seamlessly blends old-world charm with modern innovation, preserving its architectural treasures while fostering a thriving community. From heritage trails to historic landmarks, every corner invites you to step into a narrative of resilience and beauty. Here, history isn't just remembered—it flourishes, creating a timeless connection to its proud past.

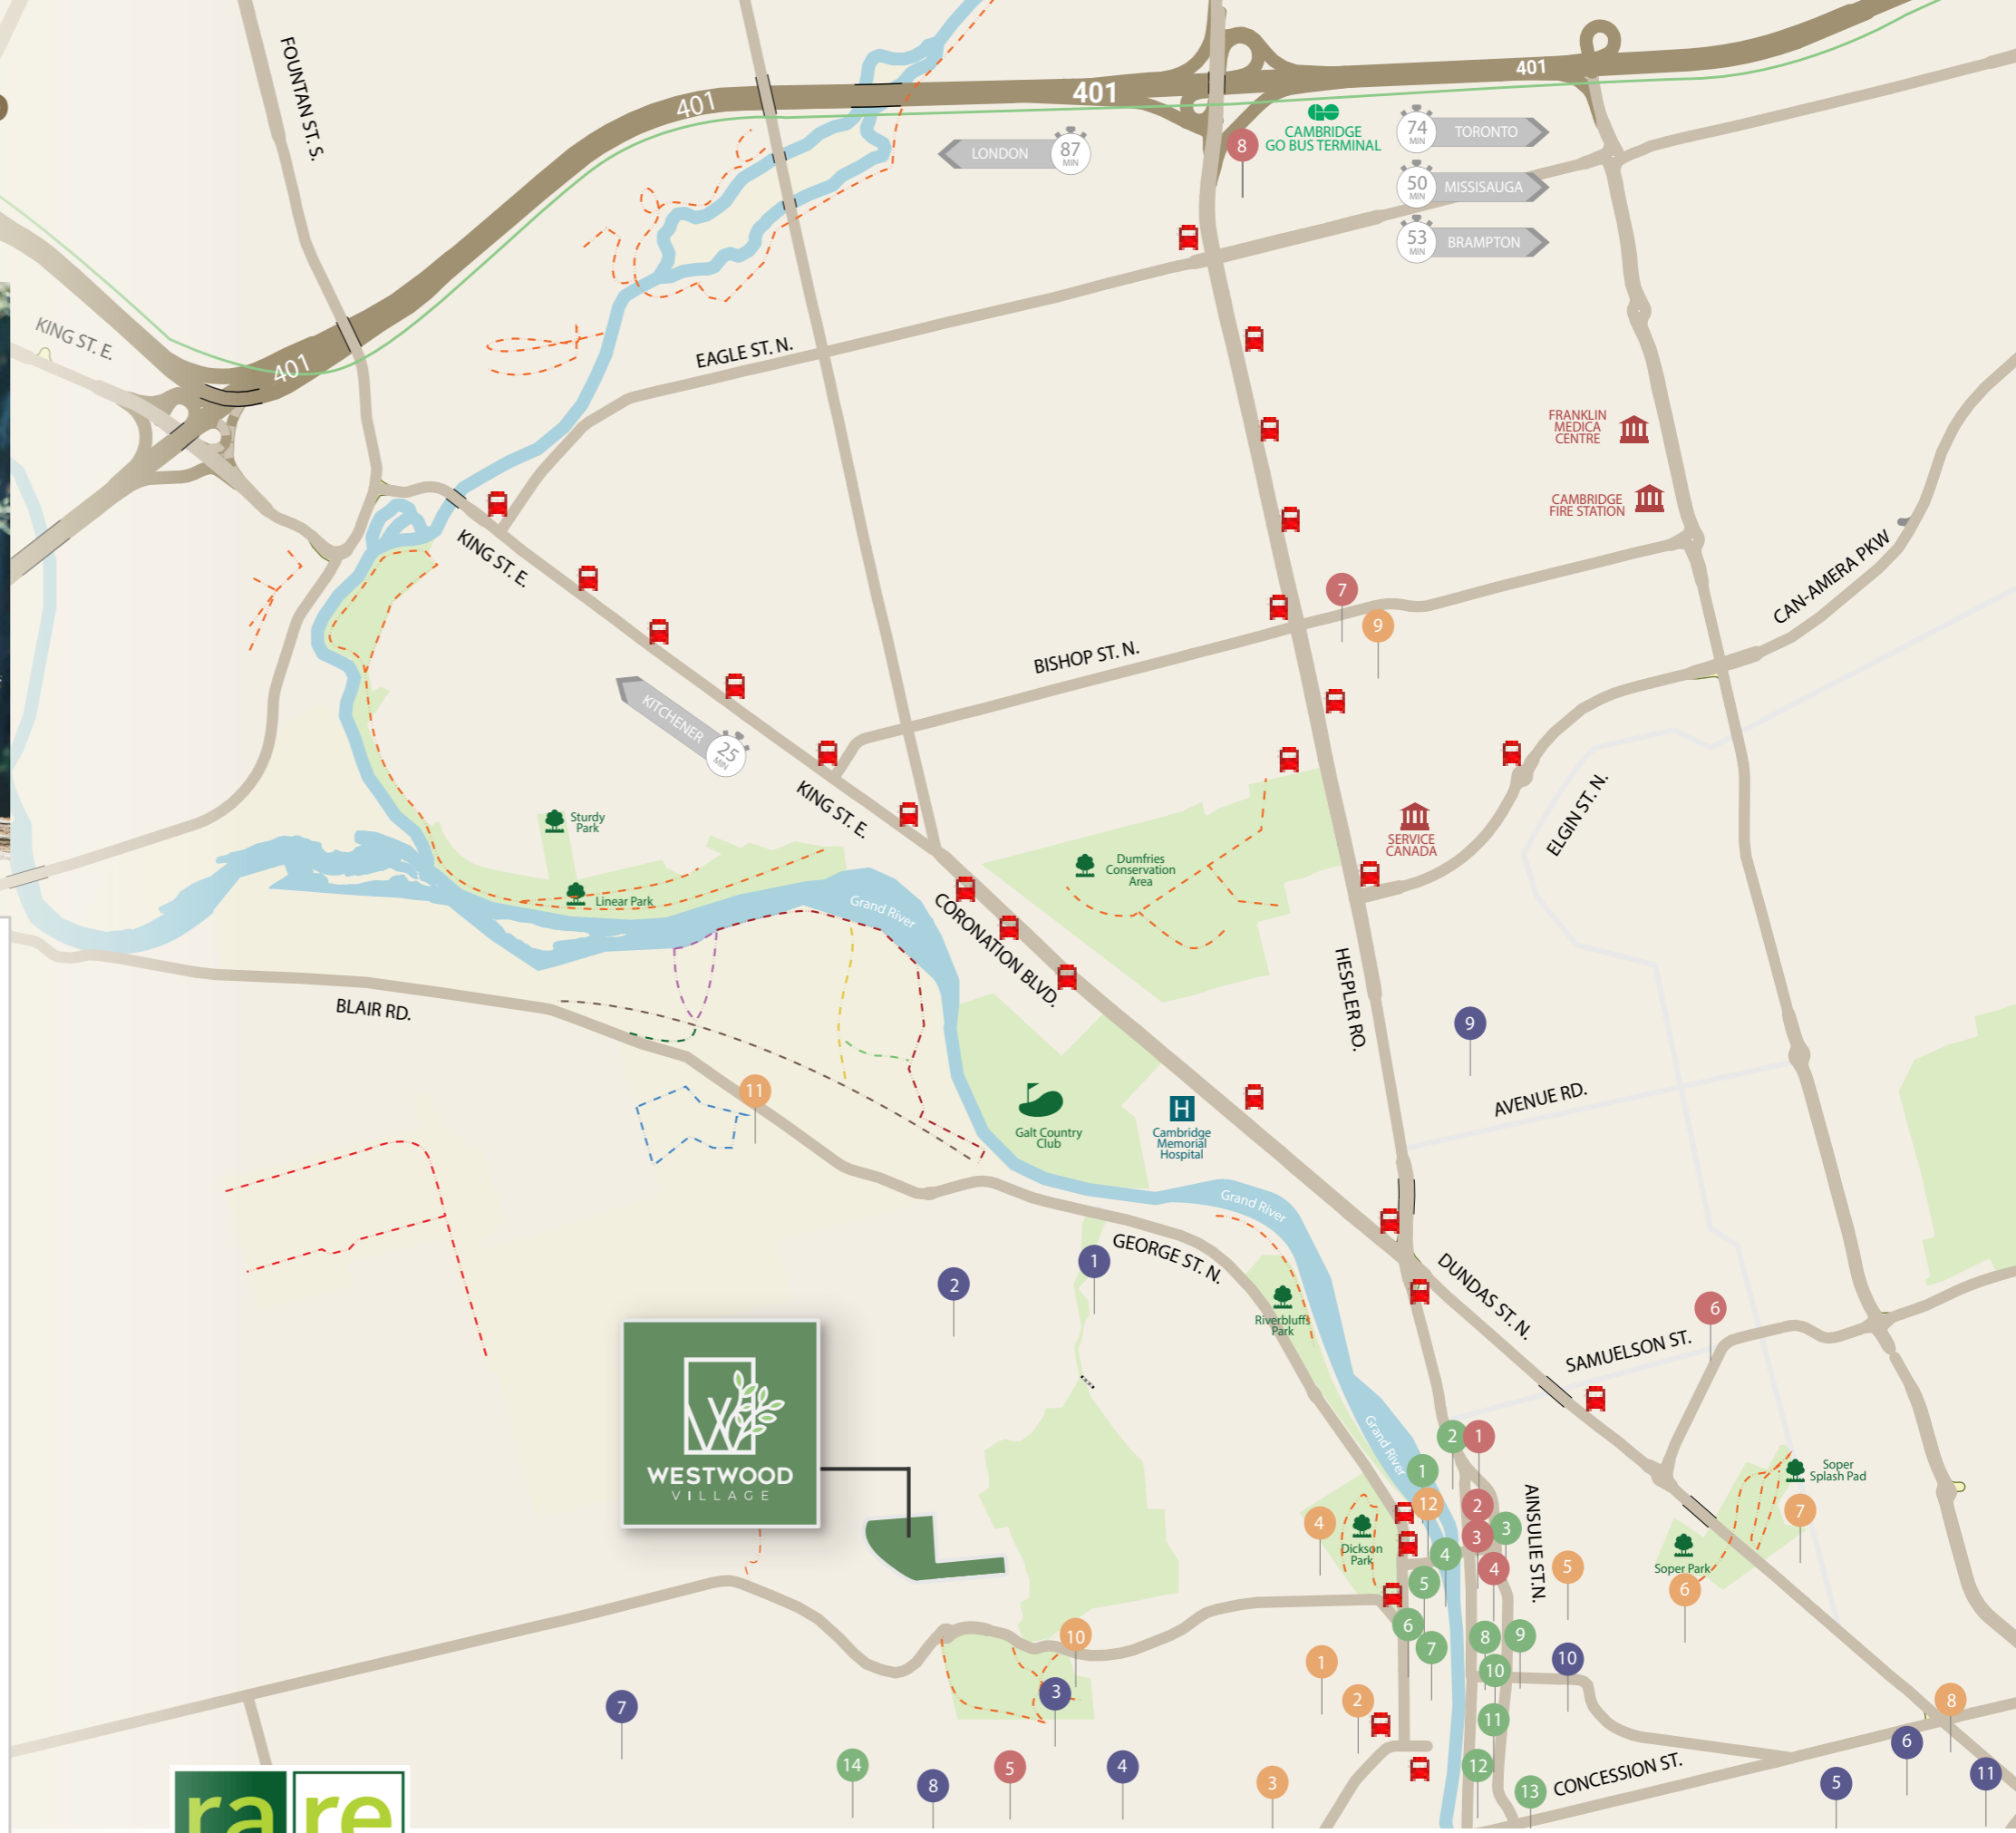

Rhythms of Life

BY THE RIVER'S EDGE

Cambridge offers a lifestyle rich in recreation and natural beauty, with the majestic Grand River at its heart. Winding through the city, this picturesque waterway is a haven for outdoor enthusiasts, offering activities like canoeing, kayaking, and fishing. Its scenic trails, perfect for walking or biking, weave through lush landscapes, providing moments of peace and adventure alike. From vibrant community events to serene riverside escapes, Cambridge harmonizes modern living with the tranquility of nature, creating a lifestyle of true completeness.

Neighborhoods

A carefully crafted community made up of seven unique neighborhoods.

In the heart of the Mariposa neighborhood, you'll find yourself surrounded by beauty as striking as its namesake. Strolling the trails, you might even be fortunate enough to spot the elusive Baltimore checkerspot butterfly, a rare and endangered treasure fluttering through this serene haven.

Windsong is a neighborhood nestled alongside natural lands, just beyond the village entrance. From your home, the lush, wooded landscape offers a chance to spot a majestic owl, either soaring silently through the trees or perched high on a branch, watching over the tranquil surroundings.

In the Summerside neighborhood, the colorful Canada Darner Dragonfly adds a touch of wonder to the season. Between June and October, these lively dragonflies take flight around the Community Pond. From your front porch or during a peaceful stroll by the water's edge, enjoy the magic of their swift and graceful movements.

Living in the Parkside neighborhood places you just a hop, skip, and a jump from the tranquil Community Pond. Much like the graceful Northern Leopard Frog, you'll take that leap into village life and find yourself never wanting to turn back.

Discover the charm of Edgewater's Community Pond, where the tranquil trail invites you to explore its natural beauty. Keep an eye out for the Midland Painted Turtle, a native of North America's slow-moving fresh waters. Admire their vividly "painted" shells, adding a splash of color to your journey through this serene haven.

Nestled between two tranquil ponds, Foxhollow offers a unique charm within the community. Step outside your door to find pathways and pedestrian bridges guiding you to nearby trails and parks. Much like a sly fox, you'll soon master the art of exploring this connected and inviting village.

Just around the corner from the Fairfields neighborhood, the joyful sounds of the future Community Park fill the air. Follow the path, where playful bunnies might hop by, leading you through the park. From there, trails unfold, inviting you to wander even further into the heart of nature.

Westwood Pond

Nestled in the heart of Westwood Village's seven charming neighborhoods is the enchanting Westwood Pond. Surrounded by sprawling wetlands, tranquil woodlands, and peaceful parklands, it offers the perfect retreat. Just moments from your front door, this serene haven invites you to savor the beauty of an evening stroll.
